

May 9, 1945, Soviet Victory over Fascism

On May 9, 1945, Nazi Germany surrendered to the Red Army, putting an end to the Second World War, freeing the peoples of the world from the criminal Nazi-fascist threat.

The Red Army, representing the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics – USSR, has nothing to do with the imperialist Russian army of Vladimir Putin which is leading the invasion of Ukraine, in the framework of inter-imperialist disputes of the moment.

The Red Army was the expression of the political power of the socialist government of the working class in the USSR; Putin represents the mafia bourgeoisie and imperialist Russia.
